Orca is a 2019 Georgian film directed by Tinatin Kajrishvili. The film tells the true story of Irakli Makharadze, a young man who was diagnosed with autism at a young age and eventually became a successful swimmer and advocate for people with disabilities.

Irakli was born in Tbilisi, Georgia, in 1992. He was a happy and healthy child, but at the age of three, he began to exhibit signs of autism. He became withdrawn and nonverbal, and he had difficulty interacting with others.

Irakli's parents were devastated by his diagnosis, but they were determined to help him reach his full potential. They enrolled him in a special school for children with autism, and they began to work with him at home.

Irakli made slow progress at first, but he eventually began to come out of his shell. He started to speak, and he began to interact with others. He also discovered a love of swimming.

Irakli's swimming career began at a local pool. He quickly showed a natural talent for the sport, and he soon began to compete in swimming competitions.

Irakli's success in the pool inspired him to become an advocate for people with disabilities. He began to speak out about the challenges that people with disabilities face, and he worked to promote awareness and understanding.

In 2012, Irakli was selected to carry the Georgian flag at the Paralympic Games in London. He was the first person with autism to carry a flag at the Paralympic Games.

Irakli's story is an inspiration to people with disabilities and their families. It shows that anything is possible with hard work and determination.

The Film

The film Orca is a powerful and moving portrayal of Irakli Makharadze's life. The film follows Irakli from his childhood diagnosis to his success as a swimmer and advocate.

The film is beautifully shot and acted, and it tells Irakli's story with sensitivity and compassion. The film is a must-see for anyone who is interested in the power of the human spirit.

The Legacy

Irakli Makharadze's legacy is one of hope and inspiration. He showed the world that anything is possible with hard work and determination. He also helped to break down barriers and promote awareness and understanding of autism.

Irakli's story continues to inspire people around the world. He is a role model for people with disabilities, and he is an inspiration to everyone who believes in the power of the human spirit.
