This article provides a comprehensive guide to the best kid-friendly destinations in Maryland, with over 600 fun stops to choose from. Whether you're looking for a day trip or a week-long vacation, you're sure to find something to keep your kids happy and entertained.

Museums and Historical Sites

Maryland is home to a number of museums and historical sites that are perfect for kids. The Maryland Historical Society in Baltimore has a variety of exhibits on Maryland's history, including a replica of the original Star-Spangled Banner. The Annapolis Maritime Museum has a collection of boats and maritime artifacts, and offers hands-on exhibits for kids. And the Fort McHenry National Monument and Historic Shrine is where the Star-Spangled Banner was flown during the Battle of Baltimore in 1814.

Amusement Parks and Water Parks

Maryland is also home to a number of amusement parks and water parks that are perfect for kids. Six Flags America in Bowie has over 100 rides and attractions for all ages, including roller coasters, water slides, and a petting zoo. Hersheypark in Hershey, Pennsylvania is just a short drive from Maryland and offers over 70 rides and attractions, including roller coasters, water slides, and a chocolate-themed area. And Dutch Wonderland in Lancaster, Pennsylvania is a smaller park that is perfect for younger kids, with rides, shows, and a water park.

Outdoor Activities

Maryland is a great state for outdoor activities, with plenty of parks, trails, and beaches to explore. Chesapeake Bay is a great place to go sailing, kayaking, or fishing. Assateague Island is a barrier island with miles of beaches and hiking trails. And Flag Pond Park in Calvert County has a variety of trails, picnic areas, and a playground.

Other Kid-Friendly Attractions

In addition to the museums, historical sites, amusement parks, water parks, and outdoor activities listed above, Maryland is also home to a number of other kid-friendly attractions. These include:

- The Works in College Park is a science museum with over 100 hands-on exhibits.
- The Maryland Zoo in Baltimore is home to over 1,500 animals from around the world.
- The National Aquarium in Baltimore is one of the largest aquariums in the United States, with over 17,000 animals from around the world.
- Port Discovery in Baltimore is a children's museum with over 100 hands-on exhibits.
- Eagle's Nest Outfitters in Harpers Ferry, West Virginia is a zip-lining and white-water rafting company that offers a variety of activities for kids and adults.

Planning Your Trip

When planning your family vacation to Maryland, there are a few things to keep in mind. First, decide what kind of attractions you're interested in. Do you want to visit museums, historical sites, amusement parks, water parks, or outdoor activities? Once you know what you're interested in, you can start to narrow down your choices.

Next, consider your budget. Maryland is a relatively affordable state to visit, but there are still some costs to keep in mind. Admission to museums and historical sites can range from $5 to $20 per person. Amusement parks and water parks can cost $50 or more per person. And food and lodging can also add up, especially if you're traveling with a large family.

Finally, consider the time of year you're traveling. Maryland has a temperate climate, but summers can be hot and humid. If you're traveling with young children, you may want to avoid visiting during the hottest months of the year.
